

OHCHR reminds the authorities that reparation measures must emerge from a broad social discussion that should place victims and their families at the centre, and they must include su" 